

and life. I visited such a home recently. The family was alive and vibrant. Teenage children were at home, because home was an exciting place to be. Father and Mother were held in high esteem and sought out for advice. The Bible and biblical truth blew through every conversation - not with stifling heat, but like a refreshing, life-giving breeze. In this home five generations have kept the faith and a sixth is learning that God is the foundation of life in whose light we see light.

These are things worth striving for. This is a vision worth sacrifice.

If you are to sort through the welter of confusion about child-rearing, you must first go to the Scriptures for answers. I am committed to the fact that the Scriptures are robust enough to provide us with all the categories and concepts we need for this task. For too long the church has tried to integrate biblical and non-biblical thought forms to answer the questions of parenting. The resulting synthesis has produced bitter fruit. We need to understand our task biblically.

Where should we start? Understand your child in relationship to the two broad sets of issues that affect him: First, the child and his relationship to the shaping influences of life. Second, the child and his relationship to God. Parenting involves (1) providing the best shaping influences you can and (2) the careful shepherding of your children's responses to those influences. These two points are a good start to getting to the heart of behavior.

ADDRESS SERVICE REQUESTED

A PUBLICATION OF:

COVENANT REFORMED CHURCH
47 S. Church St., Carbondale, PA. 18407
570.282.6400 | covenantrc@verizon.net
www.CovenantRC.org

Non-Profit
U.S. Postage PAID
Carbondale, PA
Permit No. 25

Proclamation is Free upon Request. Please let us know of anyone who might like a subscription. To be removed from the mailing list, please contact using information above.

DISCOVERING GOD'S WAY of Handling

MONEY

BY CROWN FINANCIAL MINISTRIES

A FREE personal finance class open to all.

Wednesdays, 7 pm, Aug. 4 to Sept. 22 at Covenant Reformed Church.

For more info visit covenantrc.org

PROCLAMATION

Promoting robust, religious thought in the tradition of orthodox, historic Christianity
July 2010 | Issue 13

Shepherding a Child's Heart:

Getting to the Heart of Behavior

TEDD TRIPP (B.A., Geneva College, M. Div., Philadelphia Theological Seminary, and D. Min. Westminster Theological Seminary) is the senior pastor of Grace Fellowship Church, Hazleton, Pennsylvania. He and his wife Margy have three adult children and nine grandchildren. Tedd is the author of the popular child-rearing book, Shepherding a Child's Heart. Instructing a Child's Heart, recently released is co-authored by Tedd and his wife, Margy.

Dr. Tripp is scheduled to speak at this year's Life Reformation conference in Dunmore, PA. on Sept. 11. For more information visit www.lifereformation.org

The following is reprinted with permission from Dr. Tripp's Shepherding a Child's Heart, (Shepherd Press: Wapwallopen, PA: 1995), 3-7. Shepherding a Child's Heart is available at Shepherdpress.com

The Scripture teaches that the heart is the control center for life. A person's life mirrors his heart. Proverbs 4:23 states it like this, "Above all else, guard your heart, for it is the well-spring of life." The word picture here is graphic. The heart is a well from which all the issues of life gush forth. This theme is restated elsewhere in the Bible. The behavior a person exhibits is an expression of the overflow of the heart.

You could picture it like this. The heart determines behavior. What you say and do expresses the orientation of your heart. Mark 7:21 states: "...From within, out of men's hearts, come evil thoughts, sexual immorality, theft, murder, adultery, greed, malice, deceit, lewdness, envy, slander, arrogance and folly." These evils in action and speech come from within - from the heart.

What your children say and do is a reflection of what is in their hearts. Luke 6:45 corroborates, "The good man brings good things out of the good stored up in his heart. The evil man brings evil things out of the evil stored up in his heart. For out of the overflow of his heart the mouth speaks."

These passages are instructive for the task of child rearing. They teach that behavior is not the basic issue.

The basic issue is always what is going on in the heart. Remember, the heart is the control center of life.

Parents often get sidetracked with behavior. If your goal in discipline is changed behavior, it is easy to understand why this happens. The thing that alerts you to your child's need for correction is his behavior. Behavior irritates and thus calls attention to itself.

Behavior becomes your focus. You think you have corrected when you have changed unacceptable behavior to behavior you sanction and appreciate.

"What is the problem," you ask? The problem is this. Your child's needs are far more profound than his aberrant behavior. Remember, his behavior does not just spring forth uncaused. His behavior - the things he says and does - reflects his heart. If you are to really help him, you must be concerned with the attitudes of heart that drive his behavior.

A change in behavior that does not stem from a change in heart is not commendable; it is condemnable. Is it not the hypocrisy that Jesus condemned in the Pharisees? In Matthew 15, Jesus denounces the Pharisees who honored Him with their lips while their hearts were far from Him. Jesus censures them as people who wash the outside of the cup while the inside is still unclean. Yet this is what we often do in child rearing. We demand changed behavior and never address the heart that drives the behavior.

What must you do in correction and discipline? You must require proper behavior. God's law demands that. You cannot, however, be satisfied to leave the matter there. You must understand, and help your child to understand, how his straying heart has resulted in wrong behavior. How did his heart defect to produce this behavior? In what characteristic ways has his inability or refusal to know, trust and obey God resulted in actions and speech that are wrong?

Let's take a familiar example from any home where there are two or more children. The children are playing and a fight breaks out over a particular toy. The classic response is, "Who had it first?" This response misses heart issues. "Who had it first?" is an issue of justice. Justice operates in the favor of the child who was the quicker draw in getting the toy to begin with. If we look at this situation in terms of the heart, the issues change.

Now you have two offenders. Both children are displaying a hardness of heart toward the other. Both are being selfish. Both children are saying, "I don't care about you or your happiness. I am only concerned about myself. I want this toy. It is the condition of my happiness. I will have it and be happy regardless of what that means to you."

In terms of issues of the heart, you have two sinning children. Two children are preferring themselves before the other. Two children are breaking God's law. Sure, the circumstances are different. One is taking the toy that the other has. The other is keeping the advantage. The circumstances are different, but the heart issue is the same - "I want my happiness, even at your expense."

You see, then, how heart attitudes direct behavior. It is always true. All behavior is linked to some attitude of heart. Therefore, discipline must address attitudes of heart.

This understanding does marvelous things for discipline. It makes the heart the issue, not just the behavior. It focuses correction on deeper things than changed behavior. The point of confrontation is what is occurring in the heart. Your concern is to unmask your child's sin, helping him to understand how it reflects a heart that has strayed. That leads to the cross of Christ. It underscores the need for a Savior. It provides opportunities to show the glories of God who sent His Son to change hearts and free people enslaved to sin.

This emphasis is the fundamental tenet of this book: the heart is the well-spring of life. Therefore, parenting is concerned with shepherding the heart. You must learn to work back from the behavior you see to the heart, exposing heart issues for your children. In short, you must learn to engage them, not just reprove them. Help them see the ways that they are trying to slake their soul's thirst with that which cannot satisfy. You must help your kids gain a clear focus on the cross of Christ.

Here is the proposition. Behavior is heart driven, therefore, correction, discipline and training - all parenting - must be addressed to the heart. The fundamental task of parenting is shepherding the hearts of your children.

This proposition will inform everything you do as parents. It will dictate your goals. It will inform your methods. It will shape your model of how children develop.

This book will address all the facets of child-rearing. We will look at a biblical view of the parenting task. We will examine child development. We will focus on parenting goals. We will think through training methods. In all these topics the core issue will be shepherding the heart.

I am not offering a simple, clever methodology here.

Your concern is to unmask your child's sin, helping him to understand how it reflects a heart that has strayed. That leads to the cross of Christ.

I am not promoting a new three-step plan for trouble-free children. I am not presenting a simple way to meet their needs so you can get on with your life. I am, however, willing to explore with you fresh ways of pursuing the training task God has given you. I offer these things as one who is not new to the task, nor have I grown cynical. I am more excited about this job than ever. I am full of hope and certain that God can enable us to raise from our homes a holy seed for the church.

I have seen families get hold of the principles in this book. I have seen parents shepherding happy, productive children who are alert to themselves